State of the Judiciary Address

Presented on May 14, 2014, to the Judicial Conference of Virginia, by the Honorable Cynthia D. Kinser, Chief Justice.

Colleagues, judges of the Court of Appeals and circuit courts, members of the General Assembly, judicial branch employees, and guests, I am pleased to talk with you about the state of the Virginia Judicial System.

John Adams, when reflecting on his representation of the British soldiers accused of the Boston Massacre, wrote that it was “one of the best pieces of service I ever rendered my country.” Service is a word with many definitions. I want us to focus on one definition today: “Deeds useful or instrumental toward some object.” Public service, then, means those deeds useful or instrumental toward the object of the public good--“a service rendered in the public interest.”

The Honorable Cynthia D. Kinser,
Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Virginia

The service [members of the Virginia Judicial System] render every day to the citizens of this Commonwealth is displayed through the decisions we make in cases and the programs and initiatives we implement.

As members of the Virginia Judicial System, we are all public servants. The service we render every day to the citizens of this Commonwealth is displayed through the decisions we make in cases and the programs and initiatives we implement. During the past year, the Judiciary has worked on important initiatives and reached certain milestones that not only serve the citizens of this great Commonwealth but also fulfill the Judiciary’s mission of providing “an independent, accessible, responsive forum for the just resolution of disputes.” But, because of the importance of our work, we must frequently examine what we are doing and how we are performing to ensure that at all times our “deeds” serve the public interest. So let us survey what we have accomplished this past year and what we are facing in the days ahead.

Last year, the National Center for State Courts completed its 18-month long Weighted Caseload Study. In November 2013, we submitted the Virginia Judicial Workload Assessment Report to the General Assembly. Before discussing the report, I thank you for your assistance in providing accurate data through the surveys and time study you completed. Your timely responses and cooperation were vital to the workload assessment, which has provided us and the General Assembly with a comprehensive report based on empirical data and objective research.

The Weighted Caseload Study measured the judicial workload in all circuit and district courts, evaluated the current allocation of judicial resources, created a model to use in determining the appropriate level of judicial resources in each circuit and district, and analyzed current judicial boundaries. In its Report, the National Center for State Courts concluded that, when applying the empirically based weighted caseload model to the caseloads in each circuit and district, the overall existing number of authorized judges in the Commonwealth is inadequate to meet the demands of the current judicial workload. The Report included specific recommendations for the number of judges needed in each circuit and district. The data showed that the implied judicial need exceeds the number of authorized judgeships by a total of 27. Additionally, the National Center for State Courts found that “[n]o scheme of judicial boundary realignment can reduce the total judicial workload in the Commonwealth’s trial courts or result in an appreciable change in the total number of judges required to handle that workload at the statewide level.”

During the 2014 Session of the General Assembly, Senator Tommy Norment and Delegate Jackson Miller introduced companion bills, Senate Bill 443 and House Bill 606, in response to the Judicial Workload Assessment Report. These bills increased or decreased the number of circuit court, general district court, and juvenile and domestic relations district court judges authorized for each judicial circuit and district based on the recommendations made in the Report. Thanks in large part to the work by the staff of the Office of the Executive Secretary, especially the staff of the Legislative and Public Relations Department, the assistance and support of several statewide bar organizations, including the Virginia Bar Association and the Virginia Trial Lawyers Association, and all of you, both bills passed the House and Senate and authorize a total of 429 judgeships in the Commonwealth. Unfortunately, passage of those bills does not necessarily mean funding for all 429 judgeships.

Indeed, as we gather here today, the Commonwealth of Virginia does not have a budget for the fiscal year that starts on July 1, 2014. So, we still have 44 current or announced vacancies in the formerly authorized 402 judicial positions. As has been the situation since 2010 when the freeze on filling judicial vacancies first began, we are struggling to decide cases timely and effectively and the administration of justice continues to suffer. As before, we call upon our retired, recalled judges to assist, and they answer the call and provide extraordinary service. In fact, during the 2013 calendar year, retired/ recalled judges sat in the circuit courts 4,279 days and in the district courts 4,565 days, for a total of 8,844 days. In the district courts, substitute judges also sat 4,321.5 days. I thank all of them.

This time last year when I addressed you, I stated that “as the judicial branch, we must work with the executive and legislative branches to fund the judiciary fully, and to have the judges we need.” The judicial branch always stands ready to work with the executive and legislative branches, but as we all know, the judiciary does not have a seat at the table with regard to the budget. Nevertheless, as the head of the judicial branch of the Commonwealth’s government, I call upon the leaders of the executive and legislative branches to work together, to find common ground, to reach a compromise on the budget, and to fully fund the judiciary so that we can better serve the citizens of the Commonwealth. When I say fully fund the judiciary, I mean funding not only to fill needed judgeships but also to increase the woefully inadequate salaries of our deputy clerks in the district courts, to re-start the Judicial Performance Evaluation Program pursuant to legislation enacted by the General Assembly this year, and to continue providing educational and technological support and resources to judges and courts throughout the Commonwealth. The funding needs of the judiciary cannot wait any longer; the parent who needs child support or a protective order cannot wait; the defendant who has the right to a speedy trial cannot wait; and the business owner or injured victim of an automobile accident who needs a timely resolution of civil litigation cannot wait. In other words, the administration of justice cannot wait. Like us in the judicial branch, the members of the executive and legislative branches are public servants. As public servants, all of us in the three branches of government must be committed to rendering service that promotes the public good.

As I have already mentioned, the need for additional judicial resources across the Commonwealth has required that we increase our reliance on retired and substitute judges to cover not only conflict cases and short-term judicial absences, but also to hear cases that are beyond the current capacity of our complement of judges. In the Judicial Workload Assessment Report, the National Center for State Courts noted that the regular use of retired and substitute judges may be negatively impacting the efficiency and quality of case processing, and suggested the consideration of a more formalized system using retired or senior status judges.

The Virginia Access to Justice Commission was created by order... to promote equal access to justice, with particular emphasis on the civil legal needs of Virginia residents.

Legislation enacted in 2013 authorized the Office of the Executive Secretary to contract with an entity to study the feasibility and effect of implementing a senior judge system for the circuit and district courts. Although the 2013 legislation provided no funding, we secured grant monies to conduct this study and have contracted with the National Center for State Courts for its completion.

The study will address ways such a system might be structured to allow for an equitable distribution of senior judges among the circuits and districts; the number of senior judges required and the minimum amount of time each senior judge would be required to sit; methods of selection, designation, and compensation of senior judges; the fiscal impact of such a system; and feasible methods for transitioning to a senior judge system.

An advisory group, comprised of active and retired judges from the circuit, general district, and juvenile and domestic relations district courts, and a district court clerk, has been assembled to assist in this study. The advisory group held its first meeting in March. The study will continue over the summer, and we will submit a final report to the General Assembly by November 15, 2014.

Last year, I mentioned the Access to Justice Planning Committee, which was convened to determine whether an access to justice commission should be formed in Virginia. The Planning Committee recommended to the Supreme Court of Virginia the creation of an access to justice commission. The Virginia Access to Justice Commission was created by order on September 13, 2013. Nineteen members have been appointed to the Commission, including judges, attorneys in private practice as well as corporate counsel, legal aid attorneys, a court clerk, and a statewide social services administrator. Recognizing that support by the state's highest court is critical to access to justice initiatives, I am pleased that Justice Goodwyn agreed to serve as the Supreme Court's representative and co-chair of the Commission. The other co-chair is John Whitfield, the executive director of Blue Ridge Legal Services, Inc., a legal aid organization.

The mission of the Virginia Access to Justice Commission is to promote equal access to justice, with particular emphasis on the civil legal needs of Virginia residents. The goals of the Commission include coordinating access to justice activities, mobilizing legal professionals to provide legal services to low income individuals, encouraging the development of auxiliary resources for underserved populations, and making the courts more accessible for all citizens. The establishment of the Virginia Access to Justice Commission ensures that an entity is actively coordinating and promoting access to justice efforts in the Commonwealth.

To highlight the importance of pro bono legal services, the Supreme Court in conjunction with the Virginia Bar Association convened the third Pro Bono Summit on April 2, 2014. At the summit, we recognized the need for and the appreciation of pro bono legal services. We focused on what has been accomplished and what can be done in the future to improve the availability and quality of pro bono legal services. When we enhance access to justice, we are meeting the public's needs.

Perhaps one of the most effective ways the judiciary is serving the public is through the outstanding work of our 37 drug treatment courts. Statistics are continually documenting what we have all known--that problem-solving courts save both lives and money. You will recall that last year I spoke about the recommendation from the Statewide Drug Treatment Court Advisory Committee that the Supreme Court authorize the committee to study other potential problem-solving courts and/or dockets in the Commonwealth. The Court decided to appoint a special committee for that purpose. The special committee is comprised of stakeholders from across the Commonwealth and is tasked with determining what problem-solving courts and/or dockets are needed in Virginia to address the special problems of its citizens who find themselves in the criminal justice system and how to implement the needed courts and/or dockets. The Supreme Court is excited about the committee's work under the leadership of Judge Jerrauld Jones of the Circuit Court of the City of Norfolk and will be receiving the committee's report in the near future.

We are also excited that a group of individuals, including some judges from Southwest Virginia, recently travelled to Tennessee to learn more about two residential treatment and recovery programs in operation there. Virginia is at a crossroads in terms of the development of problem-solving courts. Let's take the path that saves lives and money. It is time for the judiciary to take the next step in designing and implementing new problem-solving courts and/or dockets as alternatives to imprisonment for individuals who are accused of crimes and are struggling with particular problems. It is part of our responsibility as public servants.

I mentioned earlier legislation passed during the 2014 General Assembly regular session to re-start the Judicial Performance Evaluation Program (JPE Program). The legislation requires that the JPE Program provide reports to the General Assembly each year for judges who are candidates for reappointment. The legislation also makes two significant changes to the JPE Program that existed previously. First, it specifically provides that the reports furnished to the General Assembly are public records open to inspection. Second, it provides that, with the exception of the reports to the General Assembly, all records "created or maintained by or on behalf of the judicial performance evaluation program related to an evaluation of any individual justice or judge are confidential and shall not be disclosed." Thus, interim evaluations remain confidential, allowing judges the opportunity to receive feedback privately during their terms for the purpose of self-improvement. As with the previous JPE program, the survey contractor will not share any evaluations or related material with the Office of the Executive Secretary or court staff.

For those of you familiar with the JPE Program as it operated previously, the program should look familiar. The survey questions will be unchanged and will be sent to the same groups of respondents. Judges will be evaluated three times during a first term and twice during second and subsequent terms on a particular court. We anticipate again using facilitator judges to consult with evaluated judges in interpreting the evaluation results. A major difference will be that, to the extent possible, the surveys will be distributed and completed electronically. This change will facilitate operation of the program at a significantly reduced cost.

If funds are appropriated timely, the first reports will be due December 2014. The Office of the Executive Secretary of the Supreme Court of Virginia will contract with the Survey and Evaluation Research Laboratory at Virginia Commonwealth University to conduct the surveys that form the basis of the evaluations. Judges who were previously evaluated as part of the JPE Program, who have continued to serve in the same court, and who will be eligible for reappointment during the 2015 General Assembly session, will be reevaluated during 2014. Those reports will be sent to the General Assembly as required. Again, I emphasize that re-evaluations in 2014 are contingent on the timely appropriation of the needed funds.

On the electronic front, the Virginia Judiciary E-Filing System went live in the Circuit Court of the City of Norfolk in April 2013. Thirteen circuit courts and 623 attorneys are currently using the Virginia Judiciary E-Filing System. To date, over 3,000 cases have been e-filed through the system. In September, the Virginia Judiciary E-Filing System was awarded the Governor's Technology Award in the "IT as Efficiency Driver - Government to Citizen" category.

A project is underway to permit circuit courts to transmit records electronically to the Supreme Court of Virginia and to the Court of Appeals of Virginia. Document standards are being reviewed and, so far, test electronic records have been accepted from circuit courts in two different appeals.

The State Police Record IT Exchange also won a Governor's Technology Award in the "IT as Efficiency Driver - Government to Government" category. This exchange eliminates the need for faxing and mailing orders for mental commitments to the Virginia State Police, thereby speeding up the transmittal of information from district courts as well as greatly streamlining the workflow of civil commitments at the Virginia State Police Headquarters. To date, 28,559 civil commitment orders have been transferred via the State Police Record IT Exchange.

Online pre-court and post-court payments

Thirteen circuit courts and 623 attorneys are currently using the Virginia Judiciary E-Filing System. To date, over 3,000 cases have been e-filed through the system.

in the general district courts are now averaging 47,000 transactions and $7.2 million each month. These numbers represent over 33% of the total collections in general district courts.

To respond to significant legislative changes in how collection agents process delinquent court fines and costs, we developed the Virginia Judiciary Collections System. This system is used by collection agents to calculate, accurately, owed monies and to enter payments made by defendants. Since August 1, 2013, 139 Virginia Judiciary Collections System users have processed almost $10 million.

Finally, imaging and document management systems are now installed in 88 courts in the Commonwealth. Twenty-one of these courts use the electronic file exclusively – even the judges while on the bench. The judiciary's commitment to improve access and efficiency for both attorneys and citizens is also demonstrated in our decision to post on the judiciary's website audio recordings of the oral arguments before the Supreme Court of Virginia and the Court's unpublished orders.

State of the Judiciary Address

In 2013, we celebrated the 75th anniversary of the Virginia State Bar. Since 1938, the Virginia State Bar has strived to improve the legal profession and has stressed the importance of legal ethics, professionalism, and civility. The Virginia State Bar provides to our attorneys the guidance, resources, and opportunities for growth and improvement that ensure a vibrant and excellent legal system to serve our citizens.

We are blessed with outstanding legal organizations here in Virginia that help us improve our judicial system. One of those is the Virginia Law Foundation, whose mission is to promote the rule of law, access to justice, and legal education through philanthropy. This year, the Virginia Law Foundation celebrates its 40th Anniversary. Through its history, the Virginia Law Foundation has provided over $23 million in grants, providing invaluable support for many worthwhile legal organizations and projects.

Please join me in congratulating the Virginia State Bar and the Virginia Law Foundation for their years of hard work and success.

As Chief Justice, it is a privilege to work with all the judges and employees of the Virginia Judicial System. I thank each one of you for all that you do every day to ensure equal justice for all. I thank you for your public service. Despite budgetary uncertainties, diminishing resources, and increasing caseloads, let us renew our commitment as public servants to use the public's resources entrusted to us wisely, to decide cases fairly, impartially, and expeditiously, and to be always mindful that our "deeds" must promote the public good. Otherwise, our actions are something less than public service.

Paraphrasing the words of John F. Kennedy, "Let [our] public service be . . . proud and lively career[s]."

Fiscal Snapshot FY2014

The General Assembly appropriated $395.9 million for the judicial system for fiscal year 2014-2015. This constituted an increase of 2.5% from the $386.4 million that was budgeted in fiscal year 2013-2014. These funds comprised just over one percent of the total state biennium budget.

Total judicial system expenditures in FY 2014 totaled $394.2 million. Of the total judicial system expenditures, 67.6% or $266.3 million was for operational costs: personal services (salaries, wage and fringe benefits) totaled $234.7 million (or 88.1% of operational costs) and automation needs, services, supplies, and equipment totaled $31.6 (or 11.9% of operational costs). Grant funds, Criminal Fund costs, and costs related to the involuntary mental commitment (IMC) process constituted the remainder ($122.1 million) of total court system expenditures in fiscal year 2014.

Awards and Honors

The Honorable Harry L. Carrico Outstanding Career Service Award

In 2004, the Judicial Council of Virginia created an Outstanding Career Service Award in honor of the Honorable Harry L. Carrico, retired Chief Justice of Virginia. This award is presented annually to one who, over an extended career, demonstrates exceptional leadership in the administration of the courts while exhibiting the traits of integrity, courtesy, impartiality, wisdom, and humility. In 2014, this award was bestowed upon the Honorable Walter S. Felton, Jr., who served three terms as Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals of Virginia.

A native of Suffolk, Virginia, Judge Felton was first elected to the Court of Appeals of Virginia in 2002, and, in 2006, he was elected as Chief Judge by the members of the Court. In 2010, he was re-elected to an additional eight-year term as Judge of the Court of Appeals. Judge Felton retired from the Court of Appeals on December 31, 2014.

Judge Felton served as a Captain in the United States Army Judge Advocate General Corps, a member of the faculty at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, at the College of William & Mary, and as Administrator of the Commonwealth's Attorneys Services Council, the state agency responsible for training, education, and services for the Commonwealth's prosecutors. In 1994, he was appointed as a Deputy Attorney General of Virginia and, in 1995, was appointed as Senior Counsel to the Attorney General. He also served as Counsel to the Governor of Virginia and as Director of Policy.

As a member of the judiciary, Chief Judge Felton continued to lead through his service on many commissions and committees including the Chief Justice's Commission on Virginia Courts in the 21st Century, the Pandemic Flu Preparedness Commission, the Judicial Council, and the Executive Committee of the Judicial Conference of Virginia.

District Court System

Outstanding Career Service Award:

Phyllis P. Williams, Clerk
Newport News General District Court –
Traffic Division

Phyllis started her employment October 29, 1973. During the past 40 years she has become a highly regarded member of the General District Court's staff. She was promoted to Clerk of the Traffic Division in January 1998 and has continued in this capacity for the past 15 years. Phyllis uses her broad range of knowledge and experience as clerk to maintain the integrity of a high volume and busy office. Phyllis sets high standards for herself and this prevails throughout the clerk's office. "She is considered an essential member of our staff" said Chief Judge Gary Mills, and it is a privilege for me to nominate her for this highly deserving award. Congratulations, Ms. Williams!

Outstanding Career Service Award:

Faye L. Rogers, Clerk
Newport News General District Court –
Criminal Division

Ms. Rodgers has been an asset to the General District for over 30 years. Faye is a hard worker and demonstrates that ability when managing the various branches of the courts when dealing with cases that overlap. This also reflects on how well she works when dealing with rotating judges and her flexibility to adapt to the different personalities. She is known to be the boss before the friend, yet she shows compassion with handling personal matters. With this being said, her level of integrity is displayed in the amount of respect demonstrated towards her by the staff. In 2012, Criminal Court was short-handed and dealt with 45,000 new cases in addition to the regular caseload. Faye was diligent and efficient with handling each situation with precision and professionalism. Chief Judge Gary Mills nominated Ms. Rogers due to her consistently demonstrating true professionalism and being a wonderful role model for others to follow. Congratulations Ms. Rogers!

Outstanding Career Service Award:

Karen Routten, Clerk
Newport News General District Court –
Civil Division

Ms. Routten has been with the Judicial System for over 33 years. She was hired as a Deputy Clerk in the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court where she worked for 13 years. Subsequently she was hired as a Deputy Clerk in the Civil Division in November 1992 and promoted to Clerk May 2010. Karen has extraordinary work ethics. She is dependable, knowledgeable and conscientious. Karen takes the initiative to pitch in with all aspects of the clerk's office and with her skills has been proven herself an effective clerk. Karen has demonstrated a high degree of loyalty to her career and has never stopped trying to do better herself and the clerk's office. Ms. Routten was nominated by Chief Judge Gary Mills. Congratulations Ms. Routten!

Judicial Administration

Distinguished Service Award:

Bethany McClanahan, Clerk
 Martha Jenkins, Deputy Clerk
 Samantha Crow, Deputy Clerk
 Kristine Blanc, Deputy Clerk
 Linda Coleman, Deputy Clerk
 Culpeper Juvenile & Domestic Relations District Court

Judge Frank Somerville nominated the staff of Culpeper JDR Court due to the manner in which the Clerk and her staff dealt with the flood that happened on July 28, 2013. The staff continues to deal with the ill effects of the flood while meeting the needs of the public, including a sudden and unplanned increase in workload with connected worries about health issues.

A pipe broke on the second floor ceiling and flooded the J&DR office on the first floor. Files had to be removed, dried out and returned; however when they were returned, some files were still damp and had mold and mildew on them which posed a health hazard; they could not come back in the office. With the assistance of the Office of the Executive Secretary of the Supreme Court, a plan was developed for the clerks to bring the files into the Courthouse a box at a time. Employees were trained to scan the files while keeping up with their existing daily responsibilities. Challenges came when parents came to the window and needed information from the files before they could file a show cause for failure to comply with a court order. Probation officers were unable to identify who had custody of a child without reviewing the file. The clerks have become experienced in describing to disappointed customers the adverse impact of the flood and the fact that some files were just unavailable. The staff worked together to keep the courtroom operating as normal as possible while meeting the needs of the public in a courteous and cheerful manner under extreme circumstances. Congratulations!

Distinguished Service Certificate:

Sharon Mahala
 Washington County Juvenile & Domestic Relations District Court

Ms. Jennifer Thornburg, Clerk, nominated Ms. Mahala because of her outstanding service over 30 years and for the past year her willingness to take over new duties and responsibilities without being asked to do so. Ms. Thornburg became a new clerk and having two deputy clerks positions vacant, it was a challenge getting everyone trained. Sharon made the transition easy for everyone. She is always at work early making sure dockets are printed, reports are completed and that everything is ready before court begins. She is meticulous in her daily work and assists everyone in the office completing their work efficiently. Sharon has been a tremendous asset in making sure the office is run proficiently. She is liked by all her fellow employees and is very helpful to all agencies and attorneys. Congratulations!

Customer Service Award:

Patricia H. Taylor
 Craig County Combined District Court

Judicial Administration

Ms. Kelly A. Pritchett, Clerk nominated Ms. Taylor due to her consistently providing office coverage during her illness and a life-threatening illness of an immediate family member. She often changed her own plans to accommodate the needs of the office. She was dependable with increased responsibilities. The decisions she made regarding office situations demonstrated sound judgment in the application of statutes, policies and procedure. When questions arose, she was resourceful and used the manuals available to research answers and then applied the appropriate procedure. She consistently demonstrates proficiency and professionalism in all aspects of her job. Without her hard work and willingness to go above and beyond her normal duties, the office could not have maintained the high level of accuracy and professionalism expected of it. Congratulations Ms. Taylor!

Magistrate System

Outstanding Career Service Award:

Thomas Hess
Smyth County, District 28, Region 1

Magistrate Hess has been a magistrate in Smyth County since 1989 and has become a permanent and welcomed fixture in that office. He is respected and admired by all he comes in contact with; citizens, law enforcement officers and court employees. Everyone appreciates his hard work and dedication to the Magistrate System and compliments are always heard. Magistrate Hess has been battling health issues for some time. Most of us would not be able to fathom the idea of continuing to work, but Tom has stated on several occasions that his job "keeps him going." He enjoys working with the public and law enforcement to see that justice has been served. It is his determination and optimism that inspires everyone. Magistrate Hess is an asset to the Magistrate System and he is an important member of the Central Magisterial District family. He was nominated by his Chief Magistrate Mary J. Hanzlick. Congratulations Magistrate Hess!

Outstanding Career Service Certificate:

Jackie Ballowe
Appomattox, District 10, Region 3

Throughout her 14 plus years Magistrate Ballowe has been an unwavering provider of magistrate services for Appomattox County. When on call magistrates were used, Ms. Ballowe would remain on call twenty-four hours a day for nearly the whole month. There have been numerous occasions when the accused even thanked Jackie on the way to jail as they knew a complete and impartial hearing had been conducted. Even when another magistrate is available by video, numerous police officers throughout the 10th District will voluntarily wait in line for her magistrate services. Ms. Ballowe is over 76 years old and she plans to retire in 2014. Magistrate Ballowe has been an inspiration to Magistrate E. Walter Newman, Jr., her nominator, especially with her professionalism, humor and civility. The magistrates of the 10th District will sadly miss hearing "how ya doing, darling" after her retirement. Congratulations Ms. Ballowe!

Distinguished Service Award:

Christina Whitlock
Wythe County, District 27, Region 1

Magistrate Whitlock has been one of those magistrates whose opinion management relies upon the most. She is often used as a sounding board for possible changes, most notably during 2013, for possible changes to the Region 1 Call Center protocols. Although some magistrates had misgivings about the idea of a CallCenter, Magistrate Whitlock's attitude was direct, to the point and refreshing. As a magistrate, she should be able to give the same service whether it was someone in Wythe or someone in Virginia Beach asking questions or for a process. In addition to Christy's ability to give clear and educated opinions, she is a wonderful magistrate and maintains a level of professionalism in her hearings, without being intimidating. She is willing to help her fellow colleagues, even if it means traveling to the Regional Jail in Abingdon to cover a midnight session. Magistrate Whitlock was nominated by Chief Magistrate Mary Hanzlik. Congratulations!

Distinguished Service Award:

Jill M. Long, Montgomery
Mary J. Hanzlik, Washington
Jonathan W. Robbins, Wise
District 27, Region 1

Regional Supervisor William Walman nominated the Magisterial Region 1 Chief Magistrate Team for their enhancement and administration of the CallCenter Project in Southwest Virginia. Prior to the implementation of the CallCenter Project, law enforcement agencies in Region 1 were frustrated with the length of wait-times required to be contacted by a local magistrate for a judicial hearing by means of video-teleconferencing. Almost half of the hearings in this rural region are conducted by video and it became imperative that we develop and implement a program to resolve the wait-time issue and become more efficient and effective in the administration of justice in this geographically large region of Virginia.

These Chief Magistrates actively participated in the development of the CallCenter Project and have continued to develop and refine this program. They developed a Regional Master Schedule for 24/7 staffing rotating through each district. The framework of schedule responds to sick, annual, personal leave and short-term disability situations. They also developed an ID Program that is currently used by all Community Services Boards in the Region whereby a magistrate can verify the identity of an individual CSB employee prior to conducting a mental health hearing. The Chiefs were instrumental in the development of a "SmartBook" where information changes for a locality/court are immediately updated with revisions.

The individual compliments and positive comments we have received from stakeholders regarding the success of the CallCenter have been very gratifying. Even the most outspoken and critical stakeholders have been forthcoming in their praise for the program. In her 2013 State of the Judiciary Report, Chief Justice Kinser noted that the CallCenter advanced the administration of justice in the Commonwealth. Congratulations to the Chief Magistrate Team for teamwork well done!

Personal Achievement Award:

Caitlyn A. Dinger
Loudoun, District 20, Region 4

Magistrate Dinger graduated from Emory and Henry University in 2005 with an undergraduate degree in Psychology and a minor in Political Science. She worked in the Loudoun General District Court Clerk's Office prior to joining the Loudoun Magistrate's Office in January 2009. In 2010 she enrolled in Marymount University completing her Master's Degree in Forensic Psychology in July 2013. Caitlyn accomplished this task while working a full-time schedule, attending three classes per semester, completing an internship and finishing with a 3.95 GPA. She was nominated by Chief Magistrate Lawrence Black. Congratulations!

Judicial AdministrationPersonal Achievement Award:

Aimee Corbett

Tazewell County, District 29, Region 1

Magistrate Corbett successfully completed her post-baccalaureate degree in Natural Resources from Oregon State University's online program in September 2013, earning a 3.54 GPA. Aimee managed to complete her degree while working full-time. She did not ask for additional leave or let her coursework interfere with her duties as a magistrate. It is also worth noting that she and her husband welcomed their first child in January 2013. She should be congratulated for her accomplishments of working full-time as a magistrate, as a new mother, and also as a full-time student. Chief Magistrate Mary Hanzlik nominated her and is proud and grateful that Magistrate Corbett is a member of the Central Magisterial District family. Congratulations!

Circuit Court System

There were no nominations from the Circuit Court offices this year.

The entire Judicial System extends its congratulations and thanks to all nominees and the award winners. Efforts such as those outlined above not only enhance the reputation of the Judicial System in the community, but also provide leadership and instill values in the men and women who labor daily to provide a judicial system of which we can all be proud.

Virginia's Judges and Magistrates

Information About Virginia's Judges

The Justices of the Supreme Court of Virginia are elected by a majority vote of each House of the General Assembly for a term of twelve years. Interim appointments are made by the Governor subject to election by the General Assembly at the next regular session. By law, the Chief Justice is selected by a vote of the seven members of the Court.

The Court of Appeals Judges are elected by a majority vote of each House of the General Assembly. They serve for eight-year terms. Interim appointments are made by the Governor subject to election by the General Assembly at the next regular session. The Chief Judge is elected by a vote of the eleven judges for a term of four years.

The Judges of the Circuit Courts are elected and receive interim appointments in the same manner as the Court of Appeals Judges. The Chief Judge of the circuit is elected for a two-year term by a vote of the judges serving in the circuit.

The Judges of Virginia's District Courts are elected by a majority vote of each House of the General Assembly for terms of six years. Vacancies in district court judgeships occurring when the General Assembly is not in session are filled by the circuit court judges of the corresponding circuit. The judges so appointed must be elected by the next session of the General Assembly. Each district has a Chief General District Court Judge and a Chief Juvenile & Domestic Relations District Court Judge, both elected by peer vote for a two-year term. The Chief Judge is the administrative head of the respective courts in the district and is responsible for the management of the courts.

Information About Virginia’s Magistrates

Magistrates provide an independent, unbiased review of criminal complaints brought to the office by police officers or the general public. Their duties include issuing various types of processes such as arrest warrants, summonses, emergency protective orders, search warrants, subpoenas, mental health orders, and emergency medical orders. Magistrates conduct bond hearings to determine bail in instances in which an individual is arrested and accept prepayments for traffic infractions and minor misdemeanors. Magistrates also serve as hearing officers for tax setoff hearings.
